Sorgho, or Chinese Sugar Cane.—The Paris exhibition of the Journal of Commerce says that the sorgho, or Chinese sugar cane, which has attracted so much attention, formed a prominent feature in the late annual exhibition of France. This plant is extensively and successfully cultivated in the south of France and in Algeria; and as an evidence of the extent and variety of the application of its material we may mention that at the late exhibited a group of samples illustrative of the metamorphoses to which he has subjected it. Nothing could be more curious than the succession of transformation shown. In one corner could be seen the sorgho in stalk, such as it is when cut; a little farther, we find it cut and dried; then in skins; then a piece of linen woven with the head; then some cloths bordered with fur; and finally M. Prieur designs for the Imperial.

The most curious and complete array of the products of the sorgho, however, at the same exhibition, was that of Dr. Sicard of Marseilles. With the pith he has manufactured excellent sugar, which will flavorably compare with any other whatever. By grinding the seed he has obtained flour and lecithin, of which he has made bread and chocolate, which the many tasters have found palatable. He extracts, moreover, from the plant an abundance of alcohol of superior quality, and besides a most agreeable wine, containing in large quantity all the tonic and other salutary elements of the juice of the grape. In addition, he makes paper out of it, of which he showed evidences in superior samples; by chemical agents he has given it great strength, elasticity, and durability, and the like, and with it in these delicate and varying articles which hitherto have been found only in the steffes and articles coming directly from China. We should add that the new derivations (as we may style them) from the cane are complete, and can be delivered to trade and industry at determined prices.

Razor.—The article superseded the use of the ordinary soap; by merely whirling the razor on the paper, to remove the lather after shaving, a keen edge is always maintained without further trouble; only one caution is necessary, that the edge is not a sharp razor, and that the soap will not stand for that state it must be prepared thus:

First procure oxyd of iron, by the addition of carbonate of soda to a solution of persulphate of iron; well wash the precipitate, and finally leave it of the consistency of cream. Secondly, procure some good paper, soft, and a little thinner than what this journal is printed on; then with a soft brush spread over the paper (one side only) very thinly the moist oxyd of iron; dry it, and cut into pieces two inches square. It is then fit for use.—Scientific American.

How to Make Good Butter.—Some of our readers may be interested in the following hints on making good, sweet butter.

Miss Emily, of the Hoosier State, who has had for several years past the entire control of the milk department in her father's family, says that she was indebted to it for the following process of making butter surely and speedily, and a most excellent one, too, as her experience proves. She says: Before I put a kettle, say one third full of water, and large enough to let the milk pall into it on the stove, where it will get boiling hot by the time I come in with the milk. I then strain the milk into another vessel, and wash the pall (which should always be of tin), then pour the milk back into the pall, and set it into the kettle of boiling water, till the milk becomes scalding hot, taking care not to let it boil; then pour it into crocks or pans and set it away into the cellar for cream to rise in the usual way. Crocks are best in the way, as seldom contain more than twenty yards to churn, while by the common practice the poor dairy maid may often churn for hours, and then perhaps have to throw all away, as I did on two occasions before I became acquainted with the Russian plan, the essential features of which I have adopted in my present mode, as given above. The method is applicable to all seasons, and will answer in summer as well as in winter.

A Microscopic Wonder.—We have had the pleasure of seeing recently a microscopic photograph, which is truly a very remarkable object. Upon the object glass appears a small specimen occupying the space of six by seven and a half hundredths of an inch—about the size of the square lead pencil before it is cut—appearing to the unaided vision only as a stain or slight discoloration upon the glass. But the microscope reveals it to be a complete copy of the Declaration of Independence, with the names of the signers in full, containing no less than 7,850 letters, every one of which is a finished specimen of typography, and the whole, under a high magnifying power, can be seen with the utmost distinctness and read with the utmost ease. The letters are only one twenty four hundredths of an inch in size, but are perfectly formed and elegant. This wonderful achievement of the photographic art was brought from Paris by Mr. D. P. Ives, and is the property of Dr. George A. Perkins—Salem Register.

Another Mathematical Phenomenon.—The Dalton (Georgia) Times says:

Last Sabbath we met, in this city, a man by the name of Morefield Holland, a native of Monroe County, Kentucky, who can certainly beat the world mathematically. He can answer any proposition which may be submitted to him, and do it without a moments delay. We asked him how many seconds there were in four thousand years. Scarcely had the question been stated, when the answer was given accurately. This man, like the country-hoosier, and if it were not for the extraordinary talents he has given him which he has been endowed, he would be considered as almost an idiot. He has traveled in company with several gentlemen over a large part of Europe, and is about starting on a tour throughout the United States. He declares that every answer is presented to his mind simultaneously with the question, and that therefore, he undergoes no mental effort in these mathematical exhibitions.

New use for the Photograph.—Speaking of the photograph, copy of the Declaration of Independence, laid upon a surface no larger than a man's hand, may now be seen in Salem, and may be read with a powerful microscope.

When such success in reducing the size of documents and likenesses has been attained by photographic art, it is easy to imagine what might be accomplished in the time of war by the use of the microscope. The most important official document could be contained in an ordinary vest button, and worn with impunity by a spy in an enemy's camp, or by a traitor eager to injure an active army of his own country.

A Swindler in Trouble.—The New York authorities said last week that James Sutton, Elliott, Senior Miller, Son, keeper of Woods, near London, England, agreed to help him to embed $1,500 of the money that he had received from the United States, and that he had been paid off with which he has been endowed, he would be considered as almost an idiot. He declares that every answer is presented to his mind simultaneously with the question, and that therefore, he undergoes no mental effort in these mathematical exhibitions.

New use for the Photograph.—Speaking of the photograph, copy of the Declaration of Independence, laid upon a surface no larger than a man's hand, may now be seen in Salem, and may be read with a powerful microscope.

When such success in reducing the size of documents and likenesses has been attained by photographic art, it is easy to imagine what might be accomplished in the time of war by the use of the microscope. The most important official document could be contained in an ordinary vest button, and worn with impunity by a spy in an enemy's camp, or by a traitor eager to injure an active army of his own country.

A Swindler in Trouble.—The New York authorities said last week that James Sutton, Elliott, Senior Miller, Son, keeper of Woods, near London, England, agreed to help him to embed $1,500 of the money that he had received from the United States, and that he had been paid off with which he has been endowed, he would be considered as almost an idiot. He has traveled in company with several gentlemen over a large part of Europe, and is about starting on a tour throughout the United States. He declares that every answer is presented to his mind simultaneously with the question, and that therefore, he undergoes no mental effort in these mathematical exhibitions.

RETRIBUTION.

Mr. Douglas in his recent speech at Springfield, Illinois, gave his views on the republican doctrine of negro equality—which, like most of his views, are marked with great earnestness and good sense. We wish these republicans who expressed such a strong aversion to the negro, would read what he now says on this subject, and induce them to abandon industrial pursuits, for the negro's dissipation, gambling and un-Vermontish lack of steadiness which seems almost in separability from the population of gold region and the foundation stone of their organization as a party. If he was such good and others are already at work and realizing success, we find a letter in the New York Courier and Enquirer, from which we give an extract:

But Mr. Lincoln's main object to the Dred

Scott decision I have reserved for my conclusion.

This principal objection to that decision is that it was intended to deprive the negro of the rights of citizenship in the different States of the Union.

Well, suppose it was, and there is no doubt that that was its legal effect, what is his object to it?

He thinks that a negro ought to be permitted to have the rights of citizenship.

He thinks that a negro ought to be permitted to vote, and to be a citizen.

hold office, and to be a citizen.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 7, 1858.

Tenth District Democratic Congressional Convention.

The democratic convention for the Tenth Congressional District will be held at Kendallville, on FRIDAY, August 13th.

W. A. PEELLE and DANIEL MCCLURE Candidates for Secretary of State, will address their fellow citizens at Fort Wayne, on Saturday August 11th, at early candle lighting.

See advertisement for Agents, in another column, headed, 'The Greatest Biography of the Age.'

Allen Co. Democratic Convention.

Our convention last Saturday was one of the best ever held in the county. Every township was fully represented, and the delegates generally consisted of the very best democrats in the several townships—the real bone and sinew of the party. Although there was a strong competition for some of the nominations, the whole proceedings were marked by a spirit of harmony and concord which ensures an unanimous support of the ticket nominated. The entire democracy of the county were represented in this convention; the delegates had been fairly chosen by large township meetings, and every man upon it is entitled to the respect and confidence of the democratic party, and of his fellow citizens generally. The resolutions adopted have the ring of the true democratic metal, and adapted to the occasion, and faithfully reflect the feelings of the democratic party in this county. The convention was in every respect a glorious one, the delegates were all animated by a spirit of devotion to the cause of democracy, and their proceedings have been in the highest degree satisfactory, and will be ratified by an unanimous and overwhelming vote in October next.

The proceedings of the convention will be found reported at length in another column.

OUR TICKET.

We this week present our readers with the ticket nominated by our democratic county convention on Saturday last, and confidently ask for its unanimous and cordial support of the democracy of Allen County, and all others in favor of filling places of public trust with competent and reliable men.

For Senator we present the name of ALLEN HAMILTON, one of our oldest citizens, a man universally esteemed and honored throughout the country. He is an able and influential man, and will occupy a distinguished position in the Senate of our state. He was nominated with-out opposition.

For Representatives we have NELSON MCLELLAN of Root township, and SCHUYLER WHEELER of Perry, both old citizens, and faithful democrats. There have, it is true, been reports against Mr. McLeLLAN's democracy, but they are proved to be unfounded and malicious, and the vote he received in convention sufficiently demonstrates the confidence reposed in him by his fellow democrats. He is a man of considerable information and capacity and will make a very respectable member. Mr. Wheeler is well known as one of the most thorough going and reliable democrats in the state. He is a good farmer, or strong, sound, practical man, and if he does not make many speeches, he will at least be certain of always voting understandingly and on the right side.

Our present Clerk, J. D. G. NELSON,—one of the best clerks, cleverest fellows, and most faithful democrat in the state—is nominated to me in election. He had strong opposition, but the overwhelming majority he received in convention gives his popularity with the masses. He richly merits the public confidence he enjoys, and will be elected by a larger majority than was ever before given in the county.

Wm. FLEMING, our candidate for Sheriff, is acknowledged to be the best and most faithful sheriff we ever had in the county. He is a perfect terror to evil doers, and is known throughout the country as one of the ablest, shrewdest, and most energetic detective officers in the West. He will, of course, be elected by a tremendous majority.

A. WILKE, our present efficient and obliging County Treasurer, was re-nominated without opposition—a sufficient evidence of his popularity.

For County Surveyor, Wm. McLAUGHLIN is re-nominated. For Commissioner M. CROW; and for Coroner JOHN P. WATERS—all good men and true, capable and worthy to fill the respective offices for which they are nominated.

Each of our tickets is a strong one, entitled to a hearty support, and we cannot comprehend how any democrat can object to vote for single men in it. They are our own candidates, selected and nominated by our delegates acting for the whole, and we are in honor bound to stand by them. But apart from this, they have evinced an strong individual claims, in their ability and capacity for the offices for which they are nominated, and their past services to the democratic cause. We therefore call upon our friends to rally to their support, and not only vote for them themselves, but also see that all their neighbors do the same. A full vote in Allen Co. is always synonymous with an overwhelming democratic victory. Let us have it this year. Our candidates richly deserve such a result of our approval.

Rich and Racy, but not very Honorable.

One of the disappointed aspirants for the Legislature is out in a communication—or rather a document is published over his name—complaining that he did not get the nomination, and urging that the convention be called together again to give him another chance, because somebody told him, in the convention, he had better withdraw his name, and then after Mr. Wheeler was nominated somebody else told him that if he had withdrawn he would have been nominated! A more ridiculous pretense for disturbing the harmony of a convention whose decision he had pledged himself to abide, we have never seen. If he had not judgment enough to manage his own interests in the first convention, how can we be bound to believe better in the second? and if he now breaks his pledge of abiding the decision of the convention and supporting the nominee whom said democrat would have sufficient faith in either his democracy or his honesty to vote for him in a new convention? The result of such a thing as recalling the convention, and setting aside so trivial and trifling a democrat as Schuyler Wheeler, and replacing him by a substantial one, is so strikingly absurd and ridiculous that we cannot believe Mr. McDonald ever wrote the communication. We know only one man from whom we should expect so constituents a piece of folly and assurance, and we can assure Mr. McC. that if he listens to that man's advice, or is in any way guided or influenced by him, he will soon find himself outside the democratic party, and looked upon with suspicion by honest men generally. On the other hand, if he did actually write the communication himself, and thinks to make any disturbance in the democratic party by such a course he is sadly mistaken, and vastly overrates his power of doing mischief. The democratic party is not to be affected by such trifles. He had better disown his evil counsels and try his best to set like an honest, consistent democrat, and then when his fellow citizens see his public services they will undoubtedly give him a call.

Sixth District.—The democrats in the Sixth District have nominated Martin M. Ray of Shelby Co. for Congress.

The republicans in the same district nominated Albert G. Porter, a venegate democrat, over John D. Deere, a man who has worked harder and done more for the old whig and republican parties than any man in the state. A majority of the delegates were instructed for Deere, but but that not their voters were driven from the polls by armed plug ruffians. This is the last dying flattery of the desperadoes, and next year Louisville will be redeemed. Kentucky may now be counted as a reliable democratic state.

Missouri Election.—Silious Redemed!—The result, so far as received, are highly favorable to the democrats, and indicate that they have carried the state by a larger majority than was given to Buchanan. Even Louisville, the head-quarters of plug-uglyism, was only lost by 200 to 300 votes, and would have been carried by the democrats, but their voters were driven from the polls by armed plug ruffians. This is the last dying flattery of the desperadoes, and next year Louisville will be redeemed. Kentucky may now be counted as a reliable democratic state.
